

AVISA Aviation Launches First CAAI Courses in Ireland

- AVISA Aviation Safety and Regulation training
- Part 145 and Part M training courses assist Irish based organisations in meeting industry standards

London, 8th January 2010

AVISA Aviation Safety Systems (“AVISA”) www.avisaltd.com, the global airworthiness and safety consultancy, announces today that it has launched the very first Civil Aviation Authority International (“CAAI”) licensed part 145 and part M training courses in Dublin, Ireland.

Through these training programmes, AVISA will provide delegates with an understanding of Part 145 Maintenance Approval principles. This will assist Operators and Maintenance Organisations, Regulatory Staff from National Aviation Authorities and Maintenance, Repair and Overhaul (“MRO”) approval holders in determining both corporate and individual responsibilities to ensure that their organisations meet industry standards.

AVISA is a global aerospace airworthiness and safety consultancy with offices in the UK, Eastern Europe, Scandinavia, Asia and the Middle East. AVISA works to ensure high safety standards and business improvements for its international clients in both the civil and military aviation sectors. With a proven successful track record, AVISA uses the very best industry and regulatory practitioners in order to deliver market leading training services.

Justin Goatcher, AVISA Group Managing Director commented:

“For AVISA Aviation the Irish Aviation market is continuing to grow. As a strategic move to meet our expansion plan and as a global provider of safety training course, we are keen to meet the demand in Ireland.”
