AVISA forms Marketing Alliance with Avtrade

- AVISA and Avtrade combine expertise for the benefit of clients worldwide

Together through this marketing alliance, AVISA and Avtrade will provide a more comprehensive service to clients, offering a high level of expertise for a very competitive price.

Justin Goatcher, AVISA Group Managing Director commented:

“AVISA prides itself on building strategic partnerships with the very best industry players in complementing industry sectors. Avtrade are without doubt a key player in their sector and our industry, we are very pleased to be working with them and value the increased ability we have to give our current and new customers a more complete service.”

Jamie Brookes, Managing Director of Avtrade added:

“Forming strategic alliances with like-minded companies such as AVISA makes absolute sense when trying to give the operator a complete service. Avtrade prides itself on concentrating on its core business; supplying and repairing components with the highest service levels. Diversification in this industry can lead to a drop in service standards which can affect your business model. Finding partners such as AVISA who specialise in their division gives the operator a higher quality product without increasing the price.”

AVISA and Gael Ltd form a Partnership to Transform Aviation Training

- Partnership makes compliance activities a business benefit with commercial advantages

AVISA has signed a joint venture agreement with Gael Ltd (“Gael”), an award-winning software developer. This new partnership will revolutionise how aviation organisations worldwide can train staff.

Ian Chapman, AVISA UK Operations Manager said:

“This partnership supports aviation in a way that up until now has been unavailable. The combination of our strengths will enable us to offer cost effective aviation training by applying new and unique methods.

“I recognise in Gael Academy a long awaited and professional on-line e-learning tool that combined with our experience and knowledge, will transform the way consultancy and training support will be delivered to all sectors of our business.”

Ashley Marron, Gael Ltd Chief Operating Officer added:

“AVISA offers the widest range of Aviation Safety Training courses available, and Gael Academy seemed a natural complement in directly deploying such training to staff, as well as serving to drive the adoption of Quality and Safety Management Systems throughout the organisation.

“This new partnership will allow aviation organisations to adopt a more co-ordinated approach to developing and maintaining a safety culture.”

AVISA awarded Follow-On Quality Management Contract with World Aero

- AVISA signs a new 2 year contract with World Aero
- Contract will cover the provision of Quality Management and Audit services

AVISA has signed a new contract with World Aero that will cover the provision of their Quality Management and Audit services for the next two years.

Justin Goatcher, AVISA Group Managing Director said:

“We are pleased that World Aero have renewed our relationship and look forward to supporting them in the future. This contract renewal demonstrates that we are focused on providing customer focused, value for money services in an ever changing industry climate.”

Phil Randell, CEO of World Aero added:

“We have worked successfully with AVISA since April 2008. I believe that the importance they place on reputation and on delivering a first-rate service fits in with our business model and our association with AVISA lets our customers know that we put product quality and safety foremost in our priorities.”

UK FLIGHT SAFETY COMMITTEE

AVISA Voted Full Member of the UK Flight Safety Committee

- The UK Flight Safety Committee is dedicated to the pursuit of the highest standards in commercial aviation safety

AVISA Aviation is now a full member of the UK Flight Safety Committee (“UKFSC”), an unincorporated association of professionals that meets regularly to exchange safety information and to examine ways to improve safety and avoid incidents and accidents.

Benefits of UKFSC membership include access to briefings from safety information exchange meetings, regular inputs to and reports from several national and international aviation forums and the opportunity to consult and network with an extensive pool of aviation expertise.

Ian Chapman, Operations Manager of AVISA commented:

“We believe that AVISA can make a significant contribution to the UKFSC by bringing our sector experience and skills to the group. All our staff have long-term associations with the international aviation sector, quite uniquely with both Operators and Regulators and understand more than most the fundamental principles and overriding need for safety focus in all areas of aviation activity. We look forward to assisting the development of UKFSC initiatives in the future.”

Rich Jones, Chief Executive of the UK Flight Safety Committee said:

“We very much welcome AVISA and their extensive knowledge of airworthiness, safety and regulation to the ranks of the UKFSC and we look forward to a long and mutually valuable association.”

AVISA EE Launches 'Train the Trainer' Courses

- New course is designed to instil Human Factor instructors with the teaching skills necessary to teach staff more creatively and successfully

AVISA EE has announced the launch of a new a 3 day 'Train the Trainer' course, teaching Human Factor instructors to be more effective trainers. As mandated by the European Aviation Safety Agency ("EASA"), human factors training is required for specific groups of staff employed in the production, logistics, planning, technical and quality areas of aviation organisations.

Steven Bentley, Resident Manager of AVISA EE commented:

"Due to the number of employees that are required to be in receipt of Human Factors training, AVISA EE has identified that a cost effective solution is to bring the delivery of this training in-house. In order that in-house trainers teach this crucial course to the highest standard, AVISA EE has designed a new training program to ensure that instructors are confident and motivated and can generate enthusiasm in their students."

AVISA EE Offers ARC Services from Sofia Office

- The Sofia office is now able to offer ARC services on a range of aircraft including Boeing 737 and 747 and also Airbus A320 series

Steven Bentley, Manager of AVISA Eastern Europe has been accepted by the UK Civil Aviation Authority ("CAA") as an Airworthiness Review Signatory ("ARC") working under the approval of AVISA UK.

AVISA is the only stand alone CAMO organisation with ARC privilege on the Boeing 747.

Steven Bentley, Resident Manager of AVISA EE said:

"For AVISA UK to obtain CAMO approval on the Boeing 747 is both a major achievement and a milestone in the development of AVISA's global services".

AVISA Aviation Launches First CAAI Courses in Ireland

- Part 145 and Part M Training courses assist Ireland based organisations in meeting industry standards

AVISA has launched the very first Civil Aviation Authority International (“CAAI”) licensed Part 145 and Part M training courses in Dublin, Ireland.

These programmes will provide delegates with an understanding of Part 145 Maintenance Approval principles. This will assist Operators and Maintenance Organisations, Regulatory staff from National Aviation Authorities and Maintenance, Repair and Overhaul (“MRO”) approval holders in determining both corporate and individual responsibilities to ensure that their organisation meets industry standards.

Justin Goatcher, AVISA Group Managing Director said:

“For AVISA Aviation the Irish Aviation market is continuing to grow. As a strategic move to meet our expansion plan and as a global provider of safety training course, we are keen to meet the demand in Ireland.”

AVISA Continues Global Expansion

- Appointment of Kalendra Kumar in Malaysia
- Official opening of AVISA South-East Asia Office

AVISA has yet again expanded its global network with the appointment of Kalendra Kumar in Malaysia. This appointment marks the official opening of AVISA’s offices in South-East Asia. Mr Kumar will run the AVISA South-East Asia office from Kuala Lumpur in Malaysia.

Mr Kumar commented on his new position:

“I am very excited about opening up the AVISA South-East Asia office and to be working with the team of experts to expand the AVISA service offerings throughout the South-East Asia region. The Aviation Industry in this region has huge growth potential. Together with AVISA UK the synergy created will enable the AVISA Group to position itself well to capitalise on this growth.”

Justin Goatcher, AVISA Group Managing Director added:

“Global expansion is at the forefront of the AVISA business plan and we are very pleased to announce Mr Kumar’s appointment as part of that expansion. Kalendra has excellent credentials in his field and will undoubtedly add huge value to our existing capabilities”.

AVISA Awarded Bermudan CAMO Approval

- AVISA to work with clients operating Bermudan registered aircraft

AVISA has been awarded Bermudan OTAR 39 CAMO (“Continuous Airworthiness Management Organisation”) approval. AVISA is the first ever UK organisation to be granted OTAR 39 approval by Bermuda.

This latest approval adds to the existing EASA, Cayman, UAE GCAA and Bahrain CAA approvals, marking out AVISA as the CAMO of choice for the world’s commercial and corporate operators.

Justin Goatcher, AVISA Group Managing Director commented:

“The AVISA Bermuda CAMO approval means that we can now assist Bermudan registered owners and operators around the world – opening a new client base for AVISA and extending our service offering once again. We are extremely proud of this achievement and our confirmed status as the premier independent CAMO of choice.”
